

ARTICLE XIII

PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT

- A. The University shall undertake a good faith effort to achieve comparable standards of professional development at all units of the University. Nothing in this provision shall be construed to reduce the overall standards of professional development at any of the units; nor shall anything in this provision be construed to relieve members of the bargaining unit at any of the units of their full academic and other University responsibilities. Professional development shall not be used for justification of remunerative employment outside the University.

- B. All bargaining unit members employed less than full-time shall consult with their department Chairperson or Vice President for Information Services and University Librarian or designee prior to undertaking professional development activities.
